If India wants to be a developed country, it must concentrate on female education. The old African proverb says 'If you educate a man, you educate an individual, but if you educate a woman, you educate an entire family or entire nation.

The root cause of all the problems like female infanticide, dowry, female suicide, domestic violence, malnutrition, child marriage etc. will be vanished if women are educated.

Education provides an essential qualification to fulfil certain economic, political and cultural functions and improves women's socio-economic status. It brings reduction in inequality.

If we want to uplift the society, we should improve the life standard of our women and for this education is a weapon.

Questions :

- (i) We should use education as a weapon -
- (a) to improve the life standard of our women
(b) to educate our men only
(c) to make our society male-dominated
(d) to get a job

- (ii) Which word in the passage means 'demand of money or other things before or during the marriage'.
- (a) malnutrition (b) dowry
(c) violence (d) domestic
- (iii) Woman education
- (a) helps a nation become fully developed
(b) brings down the ratio of inequality
(c) helps the society in the upliftment of our people
(d) all of these ((a), (b), (c))
- (iv) The above passage is mainly about
- (a) a developed country
(b) problems of women
(c) woman education
(d) upliftment of society
- (v) According to the old African proverb 'If you educate a man you _____'.
- (a) educate a woman

There are some benefits of solar energy. First of all, use of solar energy is good for our environment. Solar panels do not emit harmful greenhouse gases that cause global warming. Solar panels require very little maintenance because there are no moving parts. They are easy to install. Their efficiency remained constant over the years. Our government offers several benefits like subsidy, tax benefits and other incentives to those people who install solar panels. One another benefit is that the solar energy system can be used in the remote areas also. Because of its inexhaustible supply and the potential to reduce our power bills, it is expected to become increasingly attractive as a renewable energy source.
